Department of Electronics and Communication Engineering

Department Vision:

To impart quality and responsive education in Electronics and Communication engineering for the overall development of students to meet the global challenges.

Department Mission:

M1: Adopt a transformative teaching-learning pedagogy to empower our students with domain knowledge and practical skills in resonance with technological developments.

M2: Impart multi-disciplinary knowledge, and train our students to develop the relevant professional competency skills.

M3: Create a cogent ambiance to comprehend the technical and management principles, and the efficacy of lifelong learning.

Program Specific Outcomes (PSOs):

PSO1: To exhibit the ability to design and implement complex systems in the areas of Communication, Control Engineering, VLSI, Embedded Systems, Signal Processing and Programming.

PSO2: To exhibit the knowledge in inter-disciplinary and multi-disciplinary areas such as Computer Architecture, Artificial Intelligence, Renewable Energy Resources, Image Processing, Environmental Protection and Management, etc., and to demonstrate skills in multitude domains.

PSO3: To exhibit the ability to solve complex Electronics and Communication engineering problems using modern tools to have a successful career, and to become entrepreneurs with social and environmental responsibilities.

Program Educational Objectives (PEOs):

Our graduates will be able to:

PEO1: Acquire core knowledge of electronics, programming, scientific and engineering fundamentals necessary to formulate, analyze and solve electronics and IT related engineering problems, and meet industry related challenges.

PEO2: Demonstrate an ability to analyze the requirements and technical specifications of hardware, software and firmware to articulate novel engineering solutions for an efficient product design.

PEO3: Adapt to the emerging technologies, and work as teams on multidisciplinary projects which in turn may develop communication skills and leadership qualities.

PEO4: Pursue professional career adopting work values with a social concern to bridge the digital divide, while meeting the requirements of Indian and multinational

TEACHER'S DAY CELEBRATION AT MBA @ AITM

Teacher's day marks one of the most awaited days for teachers and students. It is a day when students show gratitude to teachers for all the hard work and time they dedicate to teaching their students. Moreover, it is on this day when teachers can take a day off from their regular hectic schedule and enjoy the functions in the school and colleges.

A good teacher can ignite the imagination, inspire hope and instill a love for learning in a child.

Faculty Contributions:

Prof. Raviraj Chougala has delivered lecture on " Importance of VLSI for the future", on 13th August 2022, at The Institution of Engineers (India), Belagavi. VLSI is the process of integrating or embedding many thousands of transistors on one silicon semiconductor micro-chip. Importance of VLSI in modern days is that it helps to create big memory arrays and are used in microcontroller and microprocessors. VLSI is important because it is very useful for compact design. It has small power consumption as compared to discrete components circuit. VLSI can be used i.e.for different functions in compact size.
